

Economic Key Held By Buyer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's newest economic report shows a "glimmering of a better situation," but the Nixon administration's expected business upturn still depends on what the nation's consumers do with their money in the coming months, economists believe.

Statistics issued by the Commerce Department and the Federal Reserve Board Thursday showed increases in industrial production and personal income during July, while a revised report on Gross National Product disclosed that real production of goods and services rose more than was reflected in the preliminary report for April, May and June.

A less encouraging report showed a $14.3 billion deficit in federal finances on the "national income accounts" basis for the April-June quarter. The N.I.A. figures, showing the largest deficit since World War II, are not the same as the unified budget normally cited when budget surpluses or deficits are mentioned.

Administration economists said they were optimistic about the day's news, although it did not point entirely toward a recovery. They emphasized the most important factor in a recovery will be consumer spending, hopefully spurred by such things as increased social security payments.

These were the highlights of the reports:

—Personal income rose $3.6 billion during July reaching a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $801.8 billion. It was $49 billion higher than July, 1969, an increase that can be attributed partially to the social security increase and large federal pay raise effective earlier this year —both of which helped to boost the N.I.A. deficit to its near-record proportions.

—The Federal Reserve Board said industrial production rose a slight two-tenths of one percent during July and ended three months of decline. The index for the month was 169.2 percent of

Delay Calley Trial

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — The military trial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., in the alleged massacre at My Lai in 1968, originally scheduled to begin here Aug. 24, has been postponed indefinitely, the Army announced today.

The Army said, however, that a pretrial hearing would be held on that date to consider defense motions. The hearing will be closed to the news media and the public, the announcement said.

Defense attorneys for Calley are seeking to force the Army to disclose contents of certain documents relating to Calley's case.

A spokesman said no further hearings will be held in Calley's case until a federal court acts on motions filed before it.

Attorneys for Calley, who is charged with premeditated murder of 102 Vietnamese civilians, have filed suit in U.S. District Court in Washington, asking that the charges be dismissed.

Collector's Haven

Carnival glass has become a valuable collector's item within the last few years, and Mrs. Otto Zimmerschied, Route 2, demonstrates the beauty that a set of marigold carnival glass can add to the home. This complete table setting is only part of her collection which includes 300 pieces from deep red to violet, green or marigold. Seen in this setting are antique sterling silverware, a Fashion marigold punch set, a Bouquet and Lattice place setting, and Standard bud vases in sterling holders.

Hobby Outgrows Itself

By CATHY BINDERUP
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Little things often lead to bigger and more important things, and this is often true in the area of hobbies. Mrs. Otto Zimmerschied, Route 2, has demonstrated this through her dedication to various interests, all of which have involved directly or indirectly all members of her family.

Mrs. Zimmerschied has utilized her spare time in collecting antiques of all kinds, collecting carnival glass, doing tape painting and needlework.

"It frustrates me when I hear people say they have nothing to do," she said. "With a little effort anyone can find something which will not only take up spare time, but which will become educational and rewarding."

"Everything has a beginning, and my interest began seven years ago when my parents left me several pieces of antique furniture," she said.

Her interest grew, and she has gone from a home decorated completely in the modern style to furnishings of entirely antique design.

Her eight-year-old daughter, Carla, has helped her mother in collecting and arranging the antiques in her bedroom. The bedroom set included a walnut bed with carved cameo and

Student Housing Appeal

State Fair Community College has sent out an urgent appeal for student housing in view of an expected 100 per cent increase in enrollment of out-district students.

Dr. Joyce Fielding, dean of student personnel, said Friday that a "critical need" exists for freshman housing — rooms, apartments and the like.

The number of out-district freshmen is expected to total about 160 this fall, compared to 85 last year, Dr. Fielding said. She said part of the reason for the increase could be traced to higher student fees initiated this year at Central Missouri State College and the University

Judge Won't Forbid Nerve Gas Dumping

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal district judge refused today to forbid the sea-bottom burial of 2,675 tons of deadly nerve gas 282 miles off the Florida coast.

But Judge June L. Green coupled her denial of a temporary restraining order with an "urgent request" that the Defense Department designate a different site for the dumping.

She said she had "serious misgivings" about the selected site. Sinking of the ship hulk at a depth of 16,000 feet, she said, posed the danger of a sudden and simultaneous crushing of all of the concrete-encased gas containers.

Judge Green also noted testimony and affidavits submitted to her that this is the first time the Army has planned to dispose of gas at such a great depth.

She also noted that two years ago the Army disposed of gas in 7,000 feet of water off the New Jersey coast and that later checks by Navy scientists had revealed no detectable harm to marine life or anything.

The judge's action came on a complaint by the Environmental Defense Fund, a New York-based citizens' group, and joined by Gov. Claude Kirk of Florida.

The weather, meantime, posed a further challenge to the Army's plans to dump the gas in the Atlantic off Cape Kennedy, Fla.

The Weather Bureau in Miami reported a dangerous tropical depression with winds of 60 miles an hour approaching the Bahamas and Florida.

Although there were no present forecasts of a possible hurricane in the area, Dr. Robert H. Simpson, head of the National Hurricane Center in Miami, said it was possible a hurricane "could come with great suddenness."

Attorneys for the fund indicated they will appeal Judge Green's ruling.

There was no immediate indication, moreover, about the reaction of the Defense Department and the Army to the judge's "request" that they seek another disposal site.

Army officials said loading of the rusty old Liberty ship might be completed today, allowing the vessel and the 2,675 tons of gas to begin the final ocean trip Saturday, a day ahead of schedule.

U. S. Troop Size To Drop in Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — American forces in the Saigon military region are being cut by about 15,000 men as the result of a major reshuffling of allied units and the transfer of a large base to the Vietnamese, official sources disclosed today.

The sources said two full brigades plus other units would be shipped home from Saigon and the 11 surrounding provinces of the 3rd Military Region. Men who have not completed most of their 12-month tours in Vietnam will be transferred to other units.

Security regulations prohibit publication of the units to be sent back to the United States until the U.S. Command announces them.

Elsewhere in the war—Small ambush actions and mopping up operations were reported along the northern coast where U.S. and South Vietnamese forces claimed they killed more than 300 North Vietnamese in fighting Wednesday and Thursday.

The largest allied casualties reported today occurred about 65 miles northwest of Saigon when mortar rounds fired by an American unit accidentally landed on a South Vietnamese position. Eleven government troops were killed, and 24 Vietnamese and two American advisers were wounded.

One harassing action was reported in Cambodia. A military spokesman in Phnom Penh said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese apparently were occupied with integrating newly arrived reinforcements.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams returned from convalescent leave with his family in Thailand and resumed his duties as commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam. His gall bladder was removed in Japan July 3.

In the major reshuffle of allied forces in the Saigon region, all American combat units except one brigade have been pulled back from the Cambodian border. Most of them have been moved to the northeast and east of Saigon, inland from the South China Sea.

South Vietnamese forces have replaced the Americans along the border west and northwest of Saigon to block North Vietnamese infiltrators, and the Tay Ninh base camp 55 miles northwest of the capital has been turned over to the South Vietnamese 18th Infantry Division.

WEATHER

The temperature Friday was 67 at 7 a.m. and 83 at noon. Low Thursday night was 66.

Lake of the Ozark stage: 57.4; 2.6 feet below full reservoir.

Sunset Friday will be at 8:09 p.m.; sunrise Saturday at 6:26 a.m.

Leeton Crash Scene

(Democrat-Capital Service)

LEETON — An Air Force T-33 Shooting Star jet trainer crashed about 2 miles south of here on Highway 2 about 9:30 a.m. Friday. Both crew members ejected safely.

Leeton is in southeast Johnson County, just above the Henry County line.

Whiteman Air Force Base, which dispatched a helicopter from the 351st Strategic Missile Wing to recover the crewmen, said the base was alerted about the crash site by a telephone call from a nearby farmhouse.

The aircraft was based at Cannon Air Force Base, N. Mex., with the 4429th Combat Training Squadron of the Tactical Air Command. It was piloted by Maj. James R. Lehtonen and Second Lt. Allen R. Franklin.

Both pilots were reported in good condition by Whiteman.

The jet trainer was enroute from Cannon AFB to Wright Patterson field in Ohio, it was reported.

The aircraft burned after impact, and the Leeton Fire Department was dispatched to the scene.

Florence Drowning Suicide

(Democrat-Capital Service)

FLORENCE — James Wayne Howard, 38, drowned himself in Richland Creek, which crosses Route JJ, near here late Wednesday night or early Thursday.

Morgan County Deputy Sheriff Bill Arnold told The Democrat Friday that there was no evidence of foul play. He also said there were no plans for an inquest.

According to Arnold, Howard was last seen about 10 p.m. Wednesday when he left his father's house here. His father, Roe Howard, was contacted by the younger Howard's employer, Fischer Construction Co., Tipton, when Howard failed to report for work Thursday, Arnold said.

The Morgan County sheriff's department was notified and Howard's body was found about 11:20 a.m. Thursday in the creek by Deputy Sheriff Charley Worthley.

According to Arnold, Howard

Remember V-J Day

By GARNETT JOSEPH
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

It was a late summer afternoon when the news came over the radio. The President would be delivering an important message to the people. At 6 p.m. (CWT) Aug. 14, 1945 President Truman announced in a quiet voice that after nearly five years of war, a truce had been signed with the Japanese.

For those back home in the United States, the news touched off wild celebration. Forrest Ritchie, Bothwell Hotel, served 3 1/2 years in the Pacific with the 37th Division of the 129th Infantry. He was a scout for the first battalion and he called it, "The hardest job in the Army." He had been back in the States a short time when the good news came.

"People were happy," remembers Ritchie, "but I couldn't forget about those boys at St. Thomas."

St. Thomas was a Japanese prisoner of war camp in the Philippines, and Ritchie was one of the first men to arrive when the camp was liberated. The happiness those men expressed was something special.

V-J Day was something special too for Bill Burtis, 920 South Massachusetts, who had been in a Japanese prison camp for 3 1/2 years. He was captured in the Philippines in 1942 and survived the infamous Bataan Death March.

He was working in a locomotive factory in Nagoya, Japan, when the war ended. In a book he made from scraps of paper and cloth from his overcoat, Burtis kept a diary of his experiences.

The Americans had been flying daily bombing raids over the area, when they suddenly stopped Aug. 15, 1945.

On that fateful day he wrote: "We didn't know what to think."

Senate May Follow Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is expected to follow the lead of the House and override President Nixon's veto of a $4.4 billion education bill. It would be Nixon's second such defeat this year.

The Senate vote is expected Tuesday or Wednesday. The House overrode the veto Thursday by a margin of 289-114, 20 votes more than the necessary two-thirds majority.

But in a history-making day of considering two presidential vetoes, the House sustained Nixon's rejection of an omnibus $18 billion appropriations bill carrying funds for housing, veterans, the space agency and a score of other programs.

The vote on that one was 203-195, a majority but 63 short of two-thirds.

The second House vote ended any chance for the omnibus measure and made it necessary for the Appropriations Committee to go to work to draft another one.

There is some sentiment at the Capitol for deeper cuts in the space program to preserve the extra funds provided in the original bill for veterans and for such programs as urban renewal.

Republican leaders noted the Senate passed the education bill

88-0 in agreeing privately with Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield that the measure would be enacted into law over Nixon's objections.

Nixon objected to the bill because it exceeded budget recommendations by $541 million. The bulk of the increases are for two programs which the Senate long has supported.

One is the Elementary and Secondary Education Act designed to improve education for children from poor families. The other is the impacted areas program which provides federal grants for school districts overcrowded because of nearby federal installations.

Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex., chairman of the Labor and Public Welfare Committee which handles education bills, said he believes the action of Congress on the vetoed measure will show its determination "to meet the domestic needs of this nation."

"It is not inflationary to meet the domestic needs of this nation," he declared.

If the President wants to fight inflation effectively, he should use the veto "on some of the wild spending for unproven weapons and on wild spending Faith Baptist Church, (Independent Fundamental), 2331 South Ingram, will have Kenneth Keele bring the 10:45 morning message. Special music will be a piano solo by Miss Carol Ryan and a duet sung by Mrs. Kenneth Keele and Mrs. Harold Ryan entitled, "But This I Know."

The evening service begins at 7 p.m. with Mr. Vernon Roth bringing the message. Special music will be a duet sung by Miss Kathy Holman and Keith Owen, "The Lights of Home." Youth meeting begins at 4:15 p.m. and Training Union at 6:15 p.m.

"The Proclamation of Salvation" is the morning sermon of Rev. Medford E. Speaker, pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist Church (Southern Baptist). Mr. Melvin Ohlrich, Deacon of the Week, will read the Meditation in Scripture, Joel 2:12-14. The Lesson in Scripture is from Joel 2:28-32. Miss June DeWitt will be singing a solo.

Sunday evening Rev. Speaker's message is entitled "Torn Between Heaven and Earth." Bible passages to be read are from Matthew 6:31-34 and Matthew 22:15-22. A trio, comprised of Patty Parks, Shirley Stuart, and Pam Waters, will sing "Jesus My Lord."

"Three Words Which Can Change Our World" will be the sermon subject of Rev. Charles Hendrickson at the Calvary Baptist Church this Sunday at 10:45 a.m. Special music for the day will be brought by the Earl Swafford family.

Sunday night the pastor's message will be "What is New Testament Christianity?" This will be brought in the 8 p.m. service.

This Friday at 6:30 there will be a Training Union Chicken and Fish Fry for the members and their families. It will be held at the Centennial Park. Members will bring covered dishes and their own table service.

The final softball game of the season will be played Saturday night at 9:30 p.m. at Housel Park with the Bethany Baptist Church.

Rev. Jess R. Wallace will bring the messages in both morning and evening services Sunday at the First Baptist Church (Southern Baptist). The church choir will sing an arrangement of "Amazing Grace." Minister of education and music, Raymond G. Hall, will provide additional special music.

During the evening worship the choir will sing "When I Survey The Wondrous Cross" and a male quartet will sing "He Is So Precious To Me."

Dependable and satisfying ways of expressing beauty, joy and well-being are offered in the Lesson-Sermon on "Soul" to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday. The readings include a verse from Psalms, "My soul, wait thou only upon God; for my expectation is from him."

All are welcome to attend services beginning at 11 a.m., at First Church of Christ Scientist, 120 East Sixth.

At Broadway Presbyterian Church this Sunday the Rev. Garner S. Odell will preach on the sermon topic "Translating Words Into Action." Special music will be a flute solo by Miss Kathy Swanson. A nursery is provided for pre-school children during the 10:45 worship hour. Sunday church school is at 9:30 a.m. with classes for all ages.

Bethany Baptist Church plans for a special recognition service of the church ball team Sunday at 7 p.m., with an old fashioned ice cream social to follow the services. Each ball player and his family will be recognized.

Bethany Baptist Church is preparing for the 11th anniversary and homecoming for Sunday, Aug. 23. Former pastors will be sending greetings to the church, a large cake will be unveiled, charter members will be recognized, and on Sunday night the Billy Graham film "His Land," will be shown. All former members and guests are most welcome.

This Sunday at Christ Lutheran the former Pastor, Rev. Roger Fjeld, will bring the morning message. There will be a congregational dinner beginning at 12:30 p.m. at the church.

The Esther Circle meets Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Clarence Boesch.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Brummet, Jr., will be greeters at the 9:30 a.m. worship service at The Community Church, 6th and Osage.

Susan Peckinpugh jumps out of the water in Santa Monica, Calif., recently with the latest of the Spiro Agnew merchandise — a tee shirt. The shirt depicts a nude Vice-President with his foot in his mouth and the name "Spiro Agnew" printed underneath. The manufacturer changed the name to prevent the problems of using Agnew's name without permission. (UPI)

Religion Survey Reveals Considerable Lip Service

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Surveys turn up some curious insights on religion, including a recent finding that what people say they believe doesn't actually have much bearing on the way they act toward others.

This was the general conclu-

Anniversary Celebration To End Sunday

During the past year the members of Christ Lutheran have observed the 10th Anniversary of the congregation's beginning.

This Sunday will bring to a climax the year of celebration. The special day will be marked with a Festival Service of Worship beginning at 10 a.m.

The Rev. Roger Fjeld, former pastor to the congregation, will be the guest speaker. Pastor Fjeld was the first pastor of the parish when it was started as a mission of the American Lutheran Church 10 years ago. In 1965 he and his family moved from Sedalia to begin another mission congregation in Denver, Colo. Pastor Fjeld is presently serving as assistant to the President of the Central District of the ALC.

Following the service Sunday there will be a congregational basket dinner beginning at 12:30 p.m.

sion of a study by Dr. Milton Rokeach, psychology professor at Michigan State University.

The results "suggest a pervasive social outlook among the religious-minded that seems to be incompatible and often opposite to the compassion taught in the Sermon on the Mount," he reports in the journal, Psychology Today.

He says the results indicate that "religious values serve more as standards for condemning others or as standards to rationalize one's own self-pursuit than as standards to judge oneself by or to guide one's own conduct."

Among Catholics surveyed, he says, religious values seem "more or less irrelevant as guides to compassionate social action," and among Protestants, there was an actual "negative relationship" between the two factors; that is, the most devout showed the least social compassion.

Commenting on the results the Rev. Dennis J. Geaney, a Catholic theologian, writes in the Catholic Messenger that they constitute a "devastating blast at organized religion," and reflect the tendency of many clergymen to disregard the social implications of the Gospel.

Nevertheless, the director of the American Foundation for Religion and Psychiatry reports that 42 per cent of Americans in trouble still turn first to clergymen for advice, rather than to psychiatrists.

This "figure seems to be on the increase," the Rev. Dr. Donald E. Smith, of New York, told the American Association for Mental Health, meeting in St. Paul, Minn.

He says studies indicate that one of every 10 Americans need psychiatric help, but since the nation has fewer than 50,000 psychiatrists and psychologists, clergymen provide a logical adjunct in the field.

He says that of the country's 260,000 parish clergymen, about 25,000 have had some clinical training in counseling those with mental-emotional problems.

Furor On Broadcast Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House-Senate conference committee has touched off a bitter, partisan fight by approving a bill to restrict broadcast campaign spending for major public offices in this year's general election.

Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., one of the four GOP conferees who voted against the measure, said the compromise bill represented a "frantic effort by Democrats to save some of their candidates."

The GOP members from both the House and Senate refused to sign the conference report, largely because the six Democratic members included the provision making the restrictions take effect this fall.

A vote on the compromise bill is scheduled today in the House before the beginning of a three and one-half week recess.

The House-Senate conferees met behind closed doors twice to iron out differences in the bill designed to cut into the sharply rising cost of running for office.

The House-passed version called for the restrictions to take effect next Jan. 1, clearly exempting the fall elections this year.

The Senate specified that the bill go into effect 30 days after enactment.

The bill sets a limit of 7 cents a vote cast in the last general election or $20,000, whichever is higher, as the spending ceiling for covered candidates. It applies to those running for president, vice president, Senate, House, governor and lieutenant governor.

Primary elections would not be covered until next year when a limit half that set for general elections would apply. Presidential and vice presidential candidates would be exempt.

The original Senate bill applied only to candidates for federal offices in general elections. The House added primaries and the two state officials.

Another House provision which stayed in the conferees' package would allow states, by law, to bring other state officers under the bill's umbrella.

The bill also requires that no broadcaster charge any political candidate more than the lowest rate paid by any commercial advertiser for the same time period. And it repeals the equal time requirements for President and Vice President candidates only.

Meanwhile, the Democratic Party filed suit seeking to overturn a Federal Communications Commission ruling that denies political parties an absolute right to buy air time for comment on issues.

The suit was filed in the U.S. Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia.

The FCC ruled last week that broadcasters can refuse to sell time to parties for comment on controversial issues. But the commission said stations cannot refuse to sell time for fund-raising.

Missourians To K. of C. Convention

JEFFERSON CITY — More than 100 Missourians will attend the Supreme convention of the Knights of Columbus in Houston, Tex., Aug. 15-20.

Leading the Missouri delegation will be State Deputy Charles J. Kolb, Jefferson City.

Other Missouri delegates who will attend the national convention, which will attract approximately 3,000 persons, are Past State Deputy Robert A. Karsznia, St. Louis; Leo J. Stock, Jr., St. Joseph; Henry Van Hoecke, Kansas City; William Paylor, Sikeston; William J. Menniges, St. Louis; John P. O'Connell, Cameron; Dan F. Lenhardt, Bonne Terre; Charles W. Hamilton, Shelby; and Kenneth Doza, St. Charles.

The convention will combine business with relaxation. Some 167 resolutions will be considered and acted upon. Archbishop Fulton J. Sheen is scheduled to address the convention, which will open officially Tuesday morning with a Concelebrated Mass.

Missourians are expected to attend pre-convention entertainment including a National Football League exhibition game between the Houston Oilers and New Orleans Saints Saturday night in the Astrodome. Sunday will be "Knights of Columbus Family Day," also in the Dome, when the Houston Astros play the Montreal Expos in a National League baseball game. Knights of Columbus Supreme Knight John W. McDewitt will be honored. A seven-hour tour of NASA, manned spacecraft center, is planned for Monday.

Schedule Nazarene Assembly

The pastor and a large delegation of members from the Church of the Nazarene in this area will take part in the annual assembly of the Kansas City district to be held at the First Nazarene church in Kansas City, Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 26-27.

Annual reports will be made by all 62 pastors on the district. Dr. Wilson R. Lanpher, Overland Park, will give his annual address as district superintendent. He will outline plans for the 1970-71 year. District officers will be elected.

The presiding general superintendent will be Dr. Eugene Stowe of Kansas City, who was elected to the top office in the denomination in 1968. He formerly was president of the Nazarene Theological Seminary.

The district will make plans for missionary and home missions programs and for working toward denominational goals. The Church of the Nazarene has a world membership of nearly 500,000 persons and a total Sunday school enrollment of over 1,065,000 persons.

The church maintains about 600 missionaries, doctors, nurses, teachers and builders in 48 countries and world areas where it conducts gospel work.

The red abalone is the only abalone marketed in North America.

Kiwanians Hear Talk By Askew

A preview of the Missouri State Fair August 22-30, its successful development during the past few years, its prospects for the future and importance to the Sedalia community and the entire state, was given by W. C. Askew, Fair secretary, at a meeting of the Sedalia Kiwanis Club in Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon.

The speaker was presented by Monty McQuitty, program chairman.

Recent improvements on the grounds include building of a tunnel under Clarendon Road from a 27-acre camping area to the fairgrounds. The Youth building and sales barn is another acquisition. Askew cited the big increase in recent years of premium money in a long list of categories.

Among the comparisons were the grand total figures in prize money of $138,015 at the 1965 Fair and $282,957 at the 1970 exposition.

He mentioned there would be more mules shown at this year's Fair than in 1918 when that animal was in prime show position in Missouri.

"It's the same old place but not the same old Fair," Secretary Askew emphasized. "When Commissioner of Agriculture Dexter D. Davis and I were appointed in 1965, Governor Warren E. Hearnes promised citizens of Missouri a State Fair second to none. Since then we have pledged ourselves to realize this goal. We believe that Action '70, this year's Fair, will be close to that goal."

Invocation was by Lindsay Edwards. Singing was led by Abe Rosenthal with Mrs. Lillian Maynard as accompanist.

President Herbert Taylor was recognized as Kiwanian of the Week in the club bulletin.

Kiwanian Frank Thomas of Spencer, Iowa, was a guest.

the 1957-1959 average. Rising production of consumer goods such as television sets and home appliances fueled the increase.

"Real" G.N.P., which measures productive output of goods and services in 1958 dollars to eliminate the effects of inflation, was $600 million higher than was first reported for the April-June quarter. The revised figure was $724.9 billion. Even though the gain was twice as large as first thought, it was still small in economic significance.

More important was the fact that the second quarter marked a turnaround after two quarters of declining production, which had led some economists and critics to say the nation was in a full recession.

Corporate profits for the second quarter were $82.3 billion at a seasonally adjusted annual rate, slightly below the $82.6 billion of the first quarter. The drop continued a decline that began this time last year after six months of record high profits.

Florence

left papers at his home indicating the death was a suicide. His body was found floating in four feet of water, secured to a log by a fishing line.

Howard's billfold, an electric lantern and other items were found on the bank near the spot where Howard apparently walked into the water.

According to Arnold, Howard had been in poor health for some time.

Howard was born, Sept. 20, 1931, in Otterville, son of Roe and Bessie Butts Howard, who survive.

He was a member of the Mount Olive Baptist Church.

Survivors include his two daughters, Vanessa and Melody Howard, Sedalia and a brother, Robert L. Howard, Florence.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at the church with the Rev. Leroy Moon officiating.

Burial will be in the church cemetery.

The body is at the Conn Funeral Home, Tipton.

Challenging Vote

POTOSI, Mo. (AP) — Leon Camilli of Potosi has filed suit in Washington County Circuit Court challenging the outcome of the Aug. 4 Democratic primary for county collector.

Jerry Courtney of Cadet, Mo., was declared the winner of the election with 684 votes to Camilli's 679.

Mrs. Marie Rupard

DALLAS, Tex. — Funeral services for Mrs. Marie Smith Rupard, 83, formerly of Sedalia, who died Wednesday, were held Friday at the First Baptist Church, Dallas.

Burial was in Restland Memorial Park, Dallas.

Police Report

Harold Gaertner, 912 East Fifth, reported to police that someone threw eggs on his front porch sometime Wednesday evening.

Dennis Keefe, 703 West Fourth, told Sedalia police Thursday that a radiator and four wheels and tires were stolen off his pickup truck sometime that night.

The items were valued at $75.

After receiving a Crime Alert call at 6:26 p.m. Thursday Sedalia Police went to Third and Engineer where a fireplug was found laying in the middle of the street.

According to police reports, witnesses stated that a dark gray station wagon was headed north on Engineer and was weaving before it hit the fire plug, shearing it off at ground-level. The car then made a U-turn at the intersection of Third and Engineer, almost striking a pedestrian, before continuing south on Engineer.

Circuit Court

A $60,000, two-count damage petition was trimmed to $9,700 by a Circuit Court jury after just a little over an hour of deliberation Thursday.

The petition was filed by Andra A. Sejera, a minor, and his parents, Termitte and Caroline Sejera, formerly of 1721 South Summit, against Larry C. Maples, Route 2.

The Sejera's presently reside in North Dakota.

The two-count damage suit stemmed from a car-motorcycle accident at 18th and Brown, March 14, 1969.

In their original petition, the Sejeras sought $35,000 in the first count and $10,000 in the second. An amended petition filed Thursday sought $50,000 and $10,000.

The jury found in favor of the plaintiffs by awarding them $8,000 in the first count of the petition and $1,700 in the second. The verdict was returned at 5:30 p.m.

Serving on the jury were Richard Hogan, Clell Funnell, Frank B. Streit, C. A. Staples, Dale Dirck, Ralph Richardson, J. W. Marlin, Mrs. Fred E. Davis, Leo Hoehns, Gary Griffin, William Cloud, Sr., and Lloyd Lewellen.

Fires In The City

The Fire Department responded to a call at 12:44 p.m. Friday at 15th and Ohio, where grass along the railroad right-of-way was on fire.

Sedalia Firemen answered an alarm at 1:29 p.m. Thursday to go to the 100 block of West Sixth to extinguish a fire in a 1961 Mercury owned by Glen Sinden.

The fire was caused by a backfire through the carburetor and was out on arrival.

No damage was reported.

Firemen answered a call at 4:05 p.m. Thursday to go to 403 East Sixth to extinguish a burning tree that was reportedly set on fire by children.

The fire was out on arrival and no damage was listed.

Troy weight is a standard system used in weighing gold, silver, platinum and coins. It is also used to weigh jewels, except pearls and diamonds, which are weighed in carats.

Take Tipton Soldier Off 'Critical' List

TIPTON — Spec. 4 Ronald Battles, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Battles, has been taken off the critical list at a hospital in Japan following surgery for gunshot wounds received in a skirmish near his base camp at Chu Lai, South Vietnam, Aug. 6.

The 1969 Tipton High School graduate had been listed in critical condition from wounds suffered in the right arm and chest.

Kasabian Granted Freedom

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Everybody says I'm a free woman," Linda Kasabian said with a sigh, "but I don't feel any different."

Then the state's star witness in the Sharon Tate murder trial was whisked out a back door of the Hall of Justice Thursday under heavy guard to spend her first night out of jail in eight months.

Mrs. Kasabian's lawyers said she was driven to an undisclosed hotel, anticipating "a good dinner and probably watching television."

She was released after murder-conspiracy charges against her were dropped Thursday. The petite, pigtailed witness was granted immunity from prosecution for telling her story on the stand.

During 14 days as a witness, she has testified that some members of Charles M. Manson's hippie-style "family" killed the blonde actress and six others during two murder missions last August. She said she went on the missions but stayed outside as a lookout, then fled in terror.

Manson and three women followers, Susan Atkins, 21, Patricia Krenwinkel, 22, and Leslie Van Houten, 20, are on trial for murder-conspiracy.

Mrs. Kasabian will come to court daily until she completes her testimony. Ronald Hughes, the last of four defense lawyers, completed his cross-examination, and chief prosecutor Aaron Stovitz began questions in redirect examination.

Stovitz said he would finish redirect by tonight, but the four defense attorneys then begin re-cross-examination, which is expected to take several days.

A prosecutor said that she will remain under guard as long as she's a witness, but once she leaves California the matter will be out of their hands.

Her attorney said she hopes to head east. Her mother in Milford has been caring for her children, Tanya, 2, and Angel, 5 months.

"The fact that she has told the truth," he said, "that she gave herself up, and that she has done everything she could for the cause of truth and justice, will give her solace and a sense of freedom."

Mrs. Zimmerschied joined the International Carnival Glass Collectors Association two years ago. The association has annual conventions in various states, last year in St. Louis. At that convention, her son, Jeff, 15, was recognized as the youngest carnival glass collector with the most pieces of glass — 25.

"Family participation has been gradual," said Mrs. Zimmerschied. All of her children from Jeff to Greg, 13, and Carla, have become interested in some area of the collecting. "My husband was the last to show real interest, but he too has entered in and the whole family is included in the various projects."

designs, and many designs are placed in frames.

"Though hobbies are important," Mrs. Zimmerschied stresses, "the family comes first. Without the family my life would be empty." She also is an avid worker in the church, and enjoys flowers and the gardening. Much of her furniture is now being refinished on her own.

"All of this work is rewarding, and is something anyone can do if the desire to find something to do is there. Hobbies have done much for my life, and hopefully they can do the same for others," she said.

Israeli Planes Attack

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli air force planes struck at Jordanian army positions today, the military command said, in further deterioration of the Middle East cease-fire.

The military said the raid was launched against Jordanian army strongholds which have given assistance to Palestinian guerrillas in attacks against Israeli frontier settlements.

A spokesman said the Jordanian army "assists terrorists and makes it possible for them to act against Israeli civilians."

A spokesman earlier had announced that Israeli Air Force jets crossed the border and bombed and strafed Arab guerrilla targets inside Jordan for the second straight day today.

The Tel Aviv spokesman said those raids were in response to mortar attacks on two Jewish settlements.

The planes all returned safely after hitting objectives adjacent to Israel's Beisan Valley, he said. Beisan Valley settlements of Maoz Haim and Yardena came under mortar fire during Thursday night, but no damage was reported.

This was the second Israeli air strike inside Jordan since the Middle East cease-fire went into effect a week ago. The guerrilla organizations have disowned the truce initiated by the United States as a preliminary to peace talks.

Reports from Amman said Jordanian authorities have tightened security measures to prevent Arab commandos from kidnapping diplomats, foreigners or government officials. Informants said the guerrillas may resort to this tactic to sabotage the U.S. peace plan.

Two Beirut newspapers also reported that King Hussein of Jordan has warned his armed forces to be on the alert because subversives were plotting to assassinate him and other Jordanian officials.

Cairo newspapers gave major coverage to Israeli charges that Egypt has moved several missile batteries closer to the Suez Canal.

Remember

Rumors had it that there was a speech for all Nips, also rumors that the Emperor had committed suicide."

On the 16th, "...everything indicated the war was over. On the 17th we were informed that we would be moving from this camp. The morale went high. ... This is the day we have been looking for for three and a half years."

At the first news the Japanese were unhappy about defeat, but suddenly their treatment of prisoners improved. It wasn't until Aug. 27 that American planes dropped the first clean clothes, cigarettes and candy the prisoners had in months, Burtis recalled.

In his diary Burtis described it as, "The biggest thrill in my life probably."

American troops finally reached the camp Sept. 4, and Bill Burtis would be going home again.

On hard-won Tarawa, Don Ward, today a construction worker for Howard Construction Co., didn't get the news of the peace treaty until four days after it was signed. He was in the communications section of the 1st Battalion of the 1st Marines. That outfit had battled on Guadalcanal and Iowa Jima, and there were few original members left. Ward had been wounded twice.

"We were worn out. There wasn't much celebration when we got the news. We were just glad to be alive," he remembers.

Unlike Europe, where news of V-E Day spread fast, the war's end came painfully show in the Pacific. Lawrence England, Sedalia police judge, was stationed in New Guinea with the intelligence section of the Military Police.

"It was hard to believe the war was over. Word drifted in a little at a time. They finally had a celebration when we were sure," England recalled.

Nader Gets Settlement Of $425,000 From GM

NEW YORK (AP) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader has received $425,000 from General Motors in an out-of-court settlement of his invasion of privacy suit.

Nader said Thursday he would use some of the money to monitor GM's activities in the areas of safety, pollution and consumer relations. "They are going to be financing their own ombudsman," he said.

The suit, filed in November 1966, alleged that GM began a campaign to intimidate Nader after he wrote his book, "Unsafe At Any Speed," which was critical of automobile safety standards.

Nader complained in the suit that GM hired a private investigator, Vincent Gillen, whose detectives inquired into his private life.

The book prompted a safety crusade and a Senate hearing during which James M. Roche, then president of the giant automaker, publicly apologized for any harassment.

Nader sued for damages—$26 million was the figure reported at the time although his lawyers said Thursday the total was $12 million.

The $425,000 that GM paid Thursday was for compensatory damages and the automaker said claims for punitive damages were withdrawn as part of the settlement.

GM said it denies any wrongdoing or legal liability in connection with the claim and that "the settlement in no respect constitutes an admission of any of the claims asserted by Nader."

"Settlement of the lawsuit at this time was considered desirable" to save the time and expense of further litigation, GM said.

Nader said in a statement that GM could have delayed the case further and therefore "it was deemed wiser to settle the case and devote the proceeds, after deduction of legal fees and expenses, to the cause of consumer protection and corporate responsibility, especially in the latter area—General Motors' responsibility."

Today's Generation Gap Is Broadened By Fears

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

While age fears youth today, youth fears age somewhat too. Young people are particularly distrustful of older people who can compete with them in any field and who refuse to "act their age." They prefer old people who submit tamely to life and have one foot in the grave. Such oldsters are no threat to them.

The average bowler is shorter, heavier and more congenial than the average golfer. He is also more likely to drink beer, smoke a cigar, and have more trouble keeping his shirttail in while he plays.

Think twice before lending money to a guy who habitually wears a tie clip. Anybody who is that neat and orderly in his dress ought to have his financial affairs in order also—and therefore have no need to borrow.

Most of the people who are sentimentally clamoring for the government to save the nation's long-distance passenger trains haven't taken a trip on one in the last 10 years.

It is hard to understand why women are so stoutly resisting the efforts of some fashion designers to get them out of miniskirts and into maxiskirts. After all, Whistler's mother wears a maxiskirt in her son's famous painting—and looks real nice.

An old-timer is a fellow who can remember when folks didn't think much of a medicine unless the label claimed it could cure not only the specific ailment they had but also half a dozen other diseases they might acquire later.

Something good can be found in every dirty movie—but that isn't why people stand in line to see it.

Our values do change with time. Can't you recall when a man thought his date was a gold digger if she ordered the $2 steak a la carte in a restaurant instead of taking the $1 blue-plate special like a lady?

The trouble with going to a baseball game anymore is that by the time the game is over you need another shave.

If you jump when the phone on your desk rings, you need to get another job, take a long vacation—or quit dipping into the office ready cash fund.

Life is getting more interesting with each passing generation. The man who used to kill time by going over to the barber shop to watch a haircut now has a grandson who does the same thing by going to the beach and watching a girl in a bikini get a sunburn.

Retrace Voyage

HONOLULU (AP) — Eight paddlers in an outrigger canoe are trying to retrace the 224-mile voyage taken by King Kamehameha the Great's war canoes in his 1795 conquest of the Hawaiian Islands.

The rowing feat has never been duplicated.

A 400-pound koa wood canoe manned by members of the Waikiki Surf Club was launched Wednesday from Kawaiaha on the island of Hawaii on the 38-mile crossing of choppy, windy seas in Alenuihaha Channel to Maui Island.

Escorting the canoe is a 40-foot cabin cruiser with seven relief paddlers aboard.

The voyage began Sunday at Kailua-Kona on Hawaii Island and is to end Aug. 22 at Waikiki Beach on Oahu.

Motherhood's Importance

Mom's apple pie, one of the good things in life which every red-blooded American boy is supposed to be willing to go to war for, may still be cherished, but mom herself seems to be falling in esteem.

To be precise, not mom but motherhood is being devalued these days.

"Motherhood is no longer rewarded as a noble, socially useful calling," said Dr. Catherine Chilman, a psychologist and head of faculty at Hood College in Frederick, Md., at the recent 61st annual meeting of the American Home Economists Association.

"With the population threat, mothers are being made to feel apologetic for having added to the population boom. They feel positively ignoble."

Not only are the ecologists and environmentalists and population experts zeroing in on motherhood, however. Many women themselves, both present and potential mothers, are rebelling against what they consider a dirty trick played on them by nature.

With marriage, every wife becomes a housewife, and with the birth of children is further locked into this occupation. Yet because of early marriage, close spacing of children and a longer life span, a larger part of a woman's life may yawn before her after the children are old enough to fend for themselves, with nothing to fill the void but the same old drudgery of housework.

Even those who do not marry or who do not become mothers are at a disadvantage in the business or professional world. As educated and as smart as men, if not more so, they are nevertheless discriminated against in the job market simply because of the biological fact that they are women.

Particularly vociferous in their denunciation of this system are those women in the militant feminine liberation movement, one of whose aims is the establishment of daycare centers for infants to free mothers to pursue careers. And certainly such services should be available for mothers who are divorced or widowed or abandoned and who must work, but many of whom are forced to live on welfare.

Almost forgotten in all the male-female, motherhood-fatherhood controversy, however, is a third party—the child.

"Liberated" women ought to consider the matter long and well before they attempt to transfer any substantial amount of child care either to fathers or to the community at large, says Dr. Chilman. Babies and toddlers are "tremendously dependent on vast quantities" of consistent, dependable love "from a specific adult—usually their mothers," she says.

The absence of that love, or its rationing by part-time, substitute parents, can have grave consequences during a child's emotional and personality development.

Everything that has been written (usually by males) over the ages extolling motherhood is still true, corny as it may sound to modern feminine ears.

While motherhood may no longer be a life-long career, nor need be a career at all for some women, for those who do elect to have children it is and always will be a full-time career during the early, critical years of a child's life. No career is more important.

Bank Schemes to Aid Politicians

WASHINGTON — One of America's banking giants has devised an ingenious scheme for skirting the Federal Corrupt Practices Act so it can stuff thousands of dollars into the pockets of friendly politicians.

Jack Anderson

The act flatly prohibits political contributions by corporations. But the Marine Midland Trust Co. of western New York has cooked up a way to duck the law and keep the cash flowing to the politicians as well.

The Buffalo bank raises a $9,000-a-year slush fund by systematically dunning its top officers for a percentage of their salary.

The money is then pumped into strategic political coffers.

The plan was adopted after being proposed by Senior Vice President C. E. Berryman, in a confidential memorandum to bank President David J. Laub.

This column has obtained a copy of the memo. It provides a rare glimpse of the lengths to which banks will go to preserve their favored position with public officials.

"The following recommendation is offered for your consideration to solve the problem of establishing a fund from which contributions to political candidates can be obtained," the memo says.

Berryman then explains that his plan grew, in part, out of "discussions at the American Bankers Association (ABA) convention" — an indication that dreaming up ways to get around the Corrupt Practices Act is a popular backstage pastime when bankers get together.

He then outlines a proposal which would give each of the bank's 107 officers receiving salaries of $15,000 or more a $5,000 "deduction." The bank would then "assess on the basis of one-half of one per cent of the remainder" to raise political funds.

Berryman adds that he feels the $9,000 would "more than cover our needs" for contributions.

"Those bankers who have successful programs," he says, "all state that it cannot be done on a voluntary basis. A certain degree of persuasion has to occur."

—Protection—

The memo concedes that there are "legal problems involved" in the contribution scheme. But it notes soberly that the bank's earnings depend heavily on "the level of our public funds."

Reached at his office, President Laub acknowledged that by "public funds" the memo meant money deposited in the bank by government agencies.

Asked what was the relationship between these deposits and political contributions, Laub at first said there was none. Then he reluctantly conceded that the political giving was "defensive" — that is, an effort to protect government deposits. The bank's total deposits are $1.2 billion.

Despite the systematic arrangement proposed in the memo, Laub insisted that the contributions were "absolutely voluntary. I wish there was a way we could put the arm on the boys. But we can't, as you well know."

"Officers can even designate the candidates who will receive their money. The funds are then used for dinner tickets, things like that. It amounts to political fund raising. We've had our attorneys check it out in every way."

—Drinks on Uncle—

Some of Washington's most distinguished government hosts ply their guests with bootleg whiskey turned over to them after it is confiscated by Treasury agents.

The whiskey and other spirits are seized by Customs and Revenue agents at ports of entry, or on raids inside the country when its owners seek to avoid federal taxes. When Treasury can find the man who claims it, he gets a chance to prove it's legal.

If no one claims it, the bottles go to federal hospitals for medicinal use, to charitable organizations for similar purposes or, as is often the case, to federal agencies for entertainment.

The only wrinkle in the gift of the liquor, which is handled by the General Services Administration, is the partying must be official, not personal.

In fiscal 1970, the Defense Department got 1,382 fifths, the State Department got 1,050, and the Department of the Interior got 699. Small quantities also went to the National Science Foundation, the Commerce Department and the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

—Volpe Roughs It—

Transportation Secretary John Volpe, whose former construction company is putting up the vast new building which will house his department, is taking pains to avoid the embarrassment of a super-plush office.

He has instructed Walter Hayhurst, chief planning officer for the building, to convert a planned bedroom in the Secretary's suite into a conference room.

There will be a sauna bath in the rooftop gym just one floor above Volpe and a special dining room with kitchen adjoining his suite. But Hayhurst still thinks Volpe will be roughing it compared to others in the cabinet.

"His office is so austere," says Hayhurst, "it hurts me."

Gary Cooper Medal

When Presidential Art Medals decided to inaugurate the Statehood series dedicated to our 50 states and famous sons, they found the history of the United States to be an endless reservoir of great men and events worthy of commemoration. The state seal proved to be no major problem, but the selection of one famous son from the many acclaimed by each state did.

The Montana Statehood medal was no exception. After considerable research and deliberation, Gary Cooper was chosen as the most famous personage to represent that state.

Gary Cooper was born in Helena, Mont., May 7, 1901, and died May 13, 1961. He starred in more than 80 motion picture films and is best-remembered for his roles in "Sergeant York" and "High Noon," receiving an Academy Award for each. His father, Charles Cooper, was a justice of the Montana Supreme Court.

The reverse of the medal features a detailed reproduction of the Great Seal of Montana. It was originally approved after Montana was declared a U.S. territory in 1864 and has survived with a few minor modifications since. It was officially adopted as our 41st state in 1893.

Mr. Cooper's portrait was produced by the "Sculptor of Presidents," Ralph J. Menconi, who sculptured all of the profiles in the Presidential series but is best-known for his creation of the Presidential Richard M. Nixon inaugural medal.

Menconi produces one Statehood and Famous Sons medal every three months and this, the 35th in a series of 50, is his latest. It is struck in high-relief in platinum, silver and bronze, and measures 1 1/4 inches in diameter.

The silver edition, with each medal serially numbered, is limited to 7,500 pieces and sells for $11. Bronze copies are available in an unlimited edition at $2.75 each. Prices for platinum medals are available on request.

Those readers who have been following the Statehood medal program may like to write for a descriptive folder on the Montana Statehood medal. Address all orders or requests to James Harper, Presidential Art Medals, Inc., 10 W. National Rd., Englewood, Ohio 45322.

U.S. Moon Landing Half-dollar

Congressman Edward R. Roybal (D-Calif.) has just introduced a bill in the House of Representatives to authorize the coinage of a 50-cent piece commemorating the Apollo moon landing. The bill, H.R. 18541, proposes that the coin be issued in a quantity not to exceed one million pieces; that it be of a standard weight, size and fineness; and of a special design appropriate to the occasion as determined by the secretary of the treasury.

Mr. Roybal's bill would have the coins issued only to the Smithsonian Institution to be publicly disposed of at a premium with all proceeds (over and above the mintage cost) to be toward the construction of the National Air and Space Museum.

This is the first in what will certainly be a multitude of suggestions pertaining to the building of such a museum and not without merit. The United States has not issued a commemorative coin in several years and the series could stand a renewal of interest since commemorative coin collecting is one of the more popular facets of the industry.

Support for this moon landing half-dollar should be in the form of a letter to

You all know the fairy tale of a prince who was endowed with everything good by friendly fairies but cursed by an unfriendly fairy with the gift of being too clever.

The same holds true at the bridge table. It pays to be clever but not to be too clever.

East's jump to four hearts was an overbid intended to jam his opponents. It did drive South to four spades. If East had just bid three hearts like a normal human being, South would have just bid three spades and East might have wound up playing and making four hearts.

West made the normal opening lead of the deuce of hearts and too-clever East won with the ace. We'll never know why he made this pointless false card. The only man he could fool was his partner.

Then East returned the nine of spades. Dummy's ace won the trick and the four of clubs was led. South's jack lost to West's queen and the defense had two tricks in. West was also certain of a trump trick and, if he could count on winning a fourth trick with the king of diamonds, he would have the hand beaten.

All this should have gone through West's mind but West was thinking about the heart suit. His partner had bid four hearts without the king or queen. Obviously he held the ace of diamonds. Why not be brilliant and lead his king?

So West was just as brilliant as his partner. He led the king of diamonds and South made his impossible contract.

GOP Governorship Edge Threatened

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

OSAGE BEACH, MO. — With both congressional and state legislative reapportionment part of the prize, Republicans now find their great hold on the U.S. governorships threatened in two of the biggest states — Pennsylvania and Ohio.

The Ohio story is not a new one. Democratic nominee John Gilligan, former congressman, was favored even before state scandals added to the burdens of the GOP nominee, Roger Cloud. A few observers, however, are insisting today that Gilligan is not the shoo-in he was pictured earlier.

The Pennsylvania battle is weird. For a long time, Republican Lt. Gov. Ray Broderick was given a big edge as probable successor to GOP Gov. Ray Shafer, who cannot succeed himself. But now Milton Shapp, the same Democrat who lost to Shafer in 1966, is thought to be slightly ahead.

Broderick is running on a strong antitax program, opposing the 3 per cent personal income levy his own governor fought for unsuccessfully in the closing years of his term. Shapp, on the other hand, has virtually adopted the Shafer program.

Shapp spent a pot of money last time and gained high name identification. Moreover, he is keeping quieter in this campaign and staying out of trouble. Too much noise from him about an income tax in a state where it is so unpopular would hardly seem an advantage.

Gov. Ronald Reagan still seems a good bet for reelection to a second term in California, but his Democratic adversary, the well-known Jess Unruh, is believed to be coming up and is keeping Reagan sufficiently busy so that he skipped the National Governors' Conference at this Lake of the Ozarks resort hideout.

Strong candidates for holding Republican chairs are Govs. William Milliken of Michigan and Francis Sargent of Massachusetts, both of whom gained office by accession from lieutenant governorships after George Romney and John Volpe joined President Nixon's cabinet. They are doing well, even by Democratic admission.

For months top Democrats were down on their own nominee in potent New York, former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg. Both parties at this moment think he is running much better than they imagined he would against incumbent Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, seeking his fourth term.

But the wise ones warn against underestimating the rich, resourceful Rocky. Money is never a barrier, he has just begun to run some superb commercials, and he is still — after endless road ordes — one of the best natural campaigners in the business. The bets are on him.

If the wild and woolly Gov. Claude Kirk (another absentee here) gets past his primary opponent, he is a good prospect to hold Florida in the GOP camp. Kirk is an unpredictable but strangely effective campaigner.

Some national party people think incumbent Democrat Gov. Preston Smith of Texas is in serious trouble from Republican Paul Eggers, who lost to him two years ago. Smith is seen as no great wonder, but the weight of judgment is that Democratic tradition in Texas will save him.

The Republicans' biggest general difficulty is that, with a present 32 to 18 edge in governorships, they have 24 on the block in 1970. With that many targets, the professionals in both parties feel the GOP is bound to lose some ground.

Among the other places Republicans hold which are judged by the experts here and elsewhere as in greatest peril are New Mexico, Alaska (where Interior Secretary Hickel bowed out and left the post to Gov. Keith Miller), and Wisconsin (where incumbent Gov. Warren Knowles is not up). Most of the remainder have a good chance.

Measuring the Language

A lot of wrenching adjustments will have to be made when, as it eventually must, the United States adopts the metric system of measurement. But one that has seldom been mentioned involves the very way we talk.

Consider these "metric equivalents" of some common expressions, as noted by World Week magazine:

- "A miss is as good as 1.61 kilometers."
- "There isn't 0.06 gram of truth in it."
- "He felt 3.05 meters tall."
- "First down and 9.14 meters to go."
- "Don't hide your light under 35.25 liters."

These adages are so much a part of the language, however, that possibly they may remain as archaic hangovers. We still say, "Penny wise and pound foolish," and it has been a long time since the pound was a unit of money in this country.

The Red Ink Blues

Things are so bad at the financially distraught Penn Central Railroad that it can't even pay for the red ink it's using so liberally on its ledgers.

According to the Wall Street Journal, an office supply firm claims that Penn Central owes it $210 for supplies, including "a quantity of red-ink ballpoint pens purchased last December."

That's what's called bankruptcy.

Readers Correct 'Insane' Advice

Dear Ann Landers: I couldn't believe my eyes when I read your answer to the father who signed himself "Second Class Citizen." It seems by the time he sat down to read the newspaper it was ripped apart. His wife had torn out a recipe, his daughter clipped your column, his mother-in-law went for the horoscope, etc. You told him to solve the problem by picking up a paper on the way home just for himself.

You call this advice? In our family if you are old enough to read a newspaper you are old enough to leave it in good condition for the next person. Common courtesy and respect for others should be learned early. A red ink underlining pen for marking articles to be torn out later is cheaper than a second newspaper — and less trouble, too. Anyone in our family who wants to tear out an item can wait till the next day.

Where were YOU, Ann Landers, when that column appeared? — Disappointed
Dear Disappointed: I was in Athens but I wrote the advice before I left. Fifty million readers can't be wrong — and that's roughly the number that complained about my answer. I plead temporary insanity.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell women who go to bargain sales not to say to a person who is looking at a sale item, "If you don't want that I would like to buy it."

This does one of two things — both of them bad. It makes the woman who is considering the item more eager to buy it than she would ordinarily be. Or it makes her feel guilty if she does buy it.

Yesterday I paid $33 for a dress. I didn't need and would not have purchased it if a very pushy woman had not stood at my elbow making such remarks as, "That's exactly what I've been looking for. Hurry up and make up your mind."

I am stuck with this "bargain" and can't return it because it was on sale. I could wring that woman's neck for what she did to me. Please print. — Minus $33.

Dear Minus: She didn't do anything to you. You did it to yourself. Consider it a $33 lesson and wear the dress to the next bargain sale as a reminder.

Dear Ann Landers: We are two teen-agers who need you to speak up for us. Grandpa is 88 years old. We love him very much but his mind wanders and he's like not all there. The doctor said Grandpa would be better off in the old folks home than at our house because Mom can't give him the kind of care he needs. So three weeks ago Mom and Dad took him to a nice place where the people are very friendly.

Mom makes my brother and me (we are 15 and 16) go with her to visit Grandpa every evening after supper. We wouldn't mind a couple nights a week, Ann, but this every-night routine is like spacing us out. It's boring to sit in a room and not be able to carry on a conversation. Grandpa doesn't even know who we are. Mom says it is being respectful and after Grandpa is gone we will be glad we were so good to him. Will you speak up for us? Mr. n is all the time handing us your column when you agree with her. — Wheeling, W. Va.

Dear Wheels: I can't see that it makes much sense for a couple of teen-agers to go visit a non-compos grandpa every night of the week. Twice a week is plenty. I hope your Mom will reconsider and stop dragging you kids along on what she considers her duty visits.

Kidnapers Sentenced In Olathe

OLATHE, Kan. (AP) — Patrick Neil McKey, 18, was sentenced to not more than 30 years in the Kansas Reformatory after pleading guilty Thursday to second degree kidnaping and jailbreak.

McKey said he helped Thomas Lamb of Fort Scott, Kan., escape from the Johnson County jail Jan. 21.

"I took a gun and locked up some jailers and dispatchers and let another guy go and we broke out of the building," McKey told the court.

"We broke out of the building and went across the street and forced a man out of a car and made him drive us in his car to try to get away."

Lamb later was convicted of two kidnappings and the murder of one young woman and was sentenced to three consecutive life terms in prison.

Lamb and McKey were captured near LaCygne, Kan., four hours after they kidnaped Lloyd Midyett, 53, of Olathe, in the cafe and made him take them away in his car.

Cyclamate Decision Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is expected today to reverse its disputed decision of six months ago and bar use of cyclamates in artificially sweetened diet foods.

The FDA said there will be an announcement on the controversial sweetener after stockmarkets close this afternoon. Extension of the cyclamate restrictions to all food would have considerable economic impact.

Informed sources said top FDA officials decided Thursday afternoon to remove the sweetener from all foods on recommendations of a special medical advisory panel. The committee only a few months ago suggested the opposite course.

Spokesmen for the agency would neither confirm nor deny the decision.

But more than a month ago, in apparent anticipation of today's announcement, FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards ordered regional offices to stop processing applications for permission to use cyclamates in diet foods.

The government placed phased restrictions on the sweetener last October after it was linked to bladder cancer, birth defects and genetic damage in animals.

Cyclamates were totally barred from soft drinks after the first of this year. The originally announced deadline of February 1 for removal of cyclamates from general purpose foods was postponed till September 1 so canners could sell enormous stocks already on hand.

The FDA said in February that cyclamates could be reclassified as drugs and sold in specially labeled foods for diabetics and the obese after Sept. 1. These foods could be purchased without prescription in grocery stores.

The ruling permitted food makers to relabel and sell products still remaining after the general ban takes effect September 1.

The spokesman for the National Canners Association said today there are substantial inventories of cyclamate-containing foods, especially fruit, from last fall's canning.

The FDA's probable new ruling against cyclamates in diet foods will therefore strand food makers with millions of dollars worth of remaining stocks.

FDA officials opposed the original decision to reclassify the sweetener from a food additive to a drug and keep it in special food. It was forced on the agency by then Health Secretary Robert H. Finch. FDA officials have testified.

Tricky Temperature

DENVER (AP) — A nurse tucked a thermometer under the tongue of a 15-year-old patient at National Jewish Hospital, then went about business elsewhere.

When she returned a few minutes later, the hospital said, she removed the thermometer—and stood rooted in horror as a small, green snake followed it.

The hospital, which declined to identify the youth or nurse, said the patient apparently snared the harmless reptile on a field trip and saved it for the occasion, concealing it in his mouth during the nurse's absence.

Policeman Is Charged In Murder

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A St. Louis police officer was charged with second degree murder Thursday in connection with the fatal shooting Aug. 4 of a 16-year-old boy.

The victim was identified as Earl Howard, whose body was found at the rear of a building. He had been shot in the face.

Patrolman William Tucker, 23, of the Page Blvd. District, was charged in a warrant from the circuit attorney's office.

Patrolman Robert Lange, 24, Tucker's partner, was charged with being an accessory after the fact of second degree murder.

Both were suspended and held in custody pending application for bond.

Lt. Norman Jacobsmeier, commander of the homicide squad, said on the day of the shooting Tucker reported he and Lange questioned a youth about a purse snatching but said they released him. Shortly afterward, Jacobsmeier said, the officers reported finding the body.

Lange declined to make a statement to investigators on the advice of his attorney.

Royals Blast Bosox As Fitzmorris Stars

BOSTON (AP) — Al Fitzmorris, a converted outfielder, misses playing every day, but he isn't kidding himself—pitching is his bread and butter.

"I still like to hit, but let's face it, I'm a better pitcher than I am a hitter," the 24-year-old right-hander said Thursday after hurling the Kansas City Royals to an 11-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Fitzmorris, who switched to pitching while with the Chicago White Sox' farm club at Appleton in the Midwest League just three years ago, allowed just six hits in going the distance for the first time and hiking his record to 6-3.

"I've been used mainly in relief—this was only my fourth start—and the longest I had pitched was six innings against California in June," the strong-armed rookie said. "It was hot out there, but I didn't get very tired. I felt real good even at the end."

Manager Bob Lemon sent his Kansas City bullpen into action when the Red Sox put together two hits for the third in the eighth. Lemon, who was a third baseman before becoming an outstanding pitcher with the Cleveland Indians, was taking no chances despite an 11-3 lead after Ed Kirkpatrick's grand slam homer in the top of the eighth.

"I remember this ball park very, very well," Lemon said. "Nothing is safe here. Anything can happen, and it usually does. I just told the kid in the eighth that I wasn't going to let him lose it."

"I can recall many times seeing big leads go out the window here. One time when I was with Cleveland we had about an 11-3 lead in the third inning—and I didn't get through the third."

Lemon said that Fitzmorris will stay in the starting rotation to "get him ready for next year."

"There's nothing more he can be taught, all he needs now is experience," Lemon said. "God gave him a good arm. He has all the equipment and he keeps the ball down. We have high hopes for him."

Fitzmorris, grabbed by Kansas City in the expansion draft, managed to keep the ball down so well that his outfield had just four chances.

"I didn't make many mistakes out there," he said. "I only got the ball up high a few times and on two of them it was hit into that left field screen." You can't make mistakes, Mike Andrews and Tony Conigliaro proved that, with their homers off high pitches."

TV Football

Fans Given Chance

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The millions of fans who spend autumn Sundays watching their favorite pro football teams clash get a chance to tonight for their own version of preseason training.

They can get in shape for the regular season by watching the Kansas City Chiefs, 1970 Super Bowl champs, take on the Baltimore Colts in a nationally televised preseason game. It's on NBC-TV and the kickoff is 8:30 p.m., EDT.

There was gloom, meanwhile, today in the camp of the Cincinnati Bengals, youngest of the 26 National Football League teams. Star quarterback Greg Cook is scheduled for surgery early next week and probably will be out of action for the entire campaign.

The game at Kansas City is one of two tonight as the second weekend of exhibitions get underway. The Detroit Lions are at Buffalo in the other.

There are nine scheduled Saturday night, one Sunday and one Monday night.

Bengal head coach and general manager Paul Brown disclosed the likely loss of Cook, offensive Rookie of the Year in 1969 for his first season in the American Football League.

"After examination, Greg decided he should undergo surgery," Brown said. The exploratory surgery on his right shoulder will be performed Monday or Tuesday at the Cleveland Clinic.

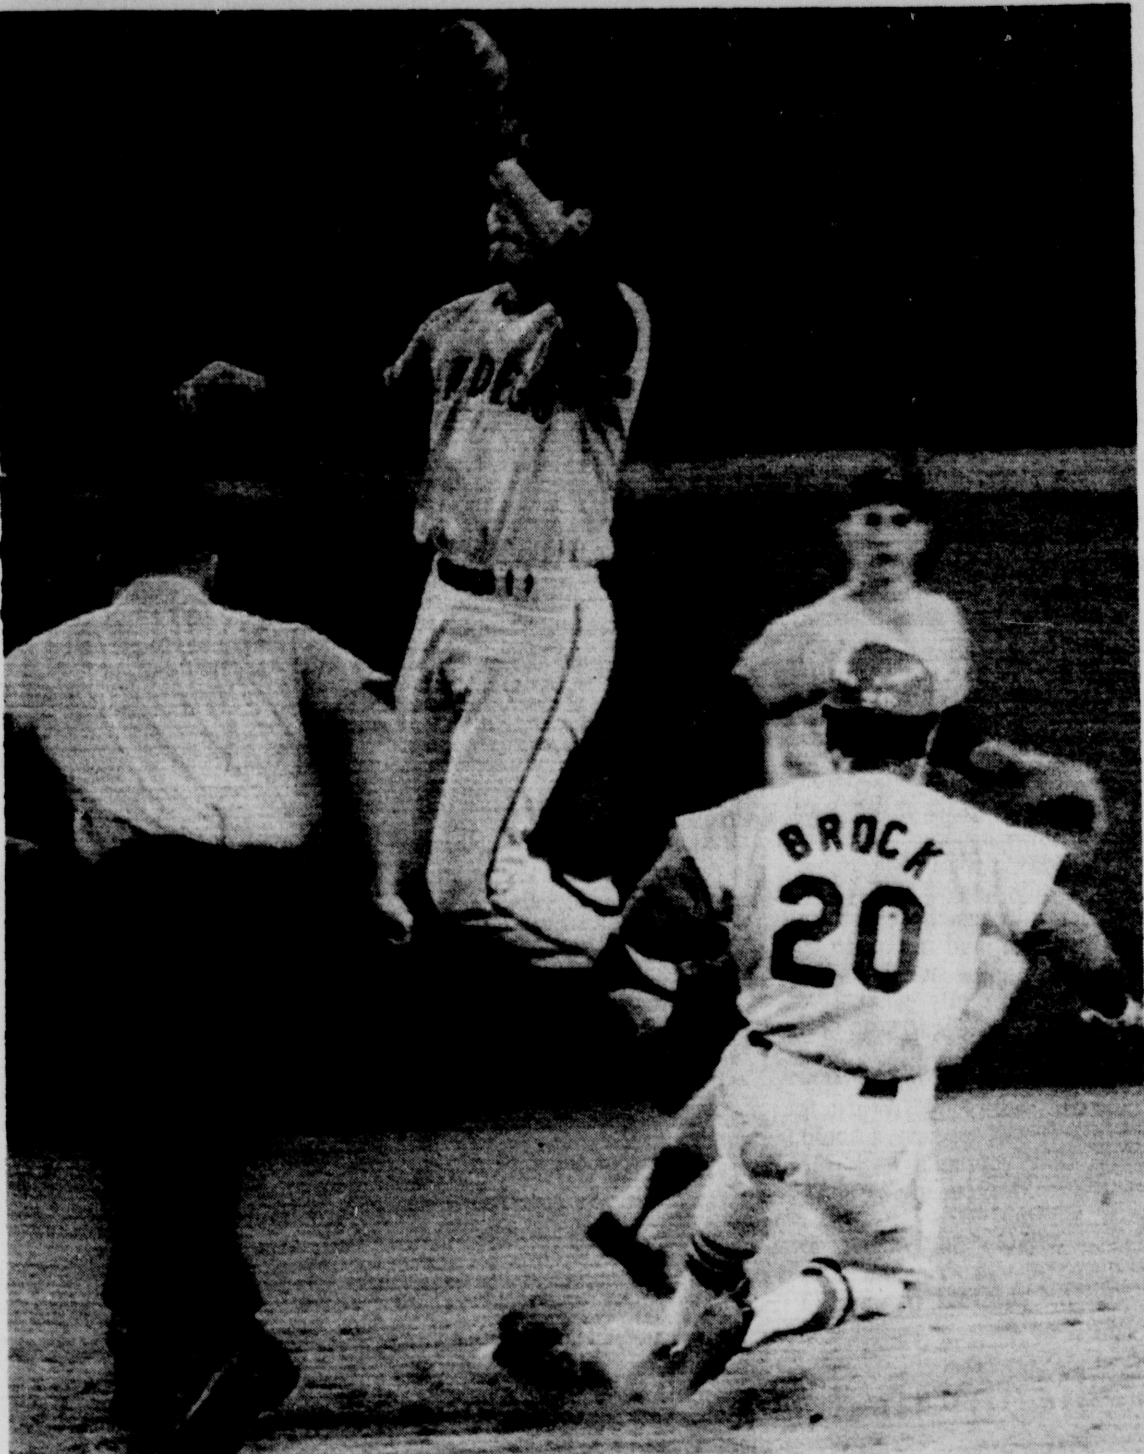

Doctors believe a sheath of muscle may have broken loose in Cook's arm, Brown said. The quarterback has complained of constant pain and has not been able to throw a football. He hurt the arm during a pickup basketball game last winter.

"Doctors feel he will be lost for the season," Brown said.

Both Baltimore and Kansas City are plagued with injuries. The Chiefs will play without linebacker Bobby Bell, sidelined with a spinal injury, and cornerback Jim Marsalis, who scored last week with an intercepted pass, is doubtful.

Here's Saturday night's NFL exhibition card: Cleveland vs. San Francisco at Tampa, Fla.; New Orleans at Houston, New York Giants at San Diego, Chicago vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee; Atlanta vs. New York Jets at Winston-Salem, N.C.; Dallas at Los Angeles, Cincinnati at Miami, Pittsburgh at Minnesota, St. Louis at Denver.

With Hitting

Padres Take Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — It was victory No. 46 of the campaign Thursday night for the San Diego Padres, who aren't far from shedding their expansion club look in the National League.

The Padres, raking St. Louis Cardinal pitchers at a .346 clip over three games, salvaged the final game of a Busch Stadium series 9-7 with 16 hits.

"If we'd got some pitching in this series, we could have won all three," Manager Preston Gomez opined.

"Like I said at the very start of the year, we're capable of scoring runs. It's the same way with the Cardinals; you can see their problem is pitching."

San Diego's triumph brought it within five of the club's 1969 victory total of 52 in its maiden season and left Gomez looking ahead to brighter days.

"We need some help," he said, "that's for sure. But my ball club, you never know what it's going to do. We come up there swinging. We can look bad some days, but the other team has to get us out."

"If we can improve as much next year and the following year as we have this year, we can be a .500 ball club two or three years from now."

Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst agreed, adding, "If they had pitching they'd be tough. They have some good ball players, and they don't make mistakes so much any more."

For the Padres, who totaled 44 hits in the free-swinging series to the Cardinals' 45, Ollie

Brown and substitute shortstop Jose Arcia provided power outlasting a tardy Cardinal rally.

Arcia, hitting only .224 and boasting only four RBI in 125 at-bats entering Thursday night's game, drove home three runs with a double and three singles.

The powerful Brown's two-run homer in the third off loser Reggie Cleveland, 0-1, and sacrifice fly in the seventh helped the Padres mount a 9-4 lead that proved insurmountable.

Before a two-run burst by the visitors in the sixth, back-to-back homers by the Cardinals' Richie Allen (No. 33) and Joe Torre reduced a 6-1 Padre lead to 6-4 an inning earlier.

"I thought in the eighth we were going to win it," said Schoendienst, whose team drove winning pitcher Clay Kirby, 8-13, from the mound with two runs during the frame and had the bases loaded with none out.

But Ron Herbel, appearing in his 56th game, induced Julian Javier to pop out and retired Joe Hague and Allen.

Horseshoe Winners

Winners of the Class A horseshoe pitching contests at Liberty Park this week were R. Plute, Warrensburg, J. Nichol, Warrensburg and W. Winston, LaMonte, all tied with 4-1 records.

They were followed by three Sedalians in fourth, fifth and sixth — B. Larson, C. Rush and E. Burnet.

In Class B competition, Sedalians dominated action. C. Williams, H. Krause and J. Payne all sported 4-1 records. They were followed by B. Hamby, Sedalia and N. Zink, Warrensburg.

At least two Baltimore players likely will not play. Offensive tackle Sam Ball has a sprained knee and safety Jerry Logan a muscle pull. Regular right guard Dan Sullivan will replace Ball if he doesn't play and rookie Tom Curtis would replace Logan.

Kansas City's linebacking corps is riddled by injuries. Bobby Bell has a spinal injury and is definitely out.

Fishing Prospects Spotty

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The State Conservation Department said today fishing prospects in Missouri's lakes and streams are spotty. Heavy rains have muddied some areas while near drought conditions close by have left other water low and clear.

Community lakes and farm ponds generally are murky but should be fishable by the weekend if no heavy rains fall.

Conditions by stream:

Grand — Upper river dingy with channel cat and flathead cat good; lower river dingy and poor.

Platte, Nodaway, Blackwater and Lamine—Dingy and all species poor.

Chariton—Muddy, poor.

Mississippi — Muddy, all species poor.

Missouri—Dingy, channel cat, flathead and blue cat fair.

Salt and Cuivre — Muddy, carp and buffalo fair.

Pomme de Terre — Clear to dingy, all species poor.

Sac—Clear above dam; channel cat and flathead cat fair.

Osage—Dingy and low above lake; all species poor, catfish and carp good on lower river.

Gacondade—Clear; goggle-eye, bass and channel cat fair.

Big Niangua — Clear but all species poor.

Meramec — Upper clear to dingy and channel cat fair, lower muddy.

Big River — Muddy and all species poor.

Big Piney — Dingy, all species fair.

Current—Clear to dingy, all species fair.

Eleven Point—Dingy, all species poor.

Jacks Fork—Clear and bass fair.

Black—Upper river clear and goggle-eye fair; lower dingy with catfish good.

St. Francis—Dingy to muddy, all species poor.

Castor—Clear to dingy, goggle-eye and panfish fair.

James — Dingy, all species poor to fair.

Elk—Clear, channel cat and bass fair to good.

Lakes:

Bull Shoals — Clear, all species fair.

Taneycomo—Clear, trout fair.

Taube Rock—Clear with bass, channel cat fair, all others poor.

Clearwater—Clear, all species good.

Wappello—Clear to dingy; channel cat, few bass, crappie and bluegill fair.

Norfork — Upper dingy, all species poor.

Pomme de Terre—Clear with crappie fair in weed beds.

Lake of the Ozarks — Clear, carp and buffalo and channel cat good, others fair.

Management Refutes Black Athletes' Claims of Professional Segregation

By BERNARDE E. GARNETT
RRIC Staff Writer

Management insists that major league sports are not segregated. They point to the numbers of blacks playing, including superstars, and the doors that are opening in the front offices. In the past, some insist, blacks either were not qualified or showed little or no interest in remaining with their teams.

RRIC sent questionnaires to officials of all teams in the National Football League, the American and National (baseball) Leagues, and American and National Basketball Association, requesting data on black employment in coaching and front-office positions and non-white in full-time scouting posts.

Personnel listed are those who appeared to be in executive positions, as furnished by the team offices.

American Basketball Association: No Black Executives in ABA Office.
Utah (formerly Los Angeles) Stars, Salt Lake City: Buddy Taylor, head trainer and road secretary.

American League (Baseball): Jesse Owens, an assistant to president Joseph Cronin. Baltimore Orioles, Kansas City Royals and New York Yankees repudied and did not list any non-white personnel. However, Elston Howard is a Yankee coach.

National Basketball Association: Simon T. Gouridine, administrative assistant to Commissioner Walter Kennedy.
Cincinnati Royals: Dr. Young, chief scout and assistant coach.

Milwaukee Bucks: Wayne Embry, chief scout, assistant to team president, with general manager responsibilities.

Seattle Supersonics: Lenny Wilkens, head coach.

Also replying, Portland Trail Blazers. An NBA expansion team, Trail Blazers listed no non-white executive or managerial personnel but indicated that at the time of the RRIC survey, all positions had not been filled. Boston Celtics were first to hire black head coach, Bill Russell, who retired last year.

National Football League: Bernard Jackson, assistant director of security, and C. (Buddy) Young, special assistant to commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Baltimore Colts: Milt Davis, full-time scout.

Boston Patriots: Rommie Loudd, director of player personnel; one of two full-time scouts is non-white.

Chicago Bears: Paul Patterson, in charge of player relations.

Denver Broncos: Sandy Gilliam and Herb Trawick, full-time scouts.

Houston Oilers: Tom Williams, assistant coach and community relations manager.

Los Angeles Rams: Paul (Tank) Younger, full-time scout.

Miami Dolphins: Vinson Clark, training camp assistant; Jimmy Hines, public relations; Julian Rodriguez (Cuban), assistant to equipment manager; David Walker, assistant athletic trainer.

Minnesota Vikings: Ira Washington, co-equipment manager; Jesse Bell (part time) public relations, scouting and personnel.

New York Giants: Roosevelt Brown and Emlen Tunnell, assistant coaches.

New York Jets: Clyde Washington, assistant director of player personnel (also serves as coaching assistant during training); five of Jets' 30 full-time area scouts are black.

San Diego Chargers: Walter Hoyer, assistant public relations director; Clinton R. Moorman, area scout, director.

Others replying: Dallas Cowboys and Green Bay Packers. Packers are part of Central Eastern Personnel Organization (CEPO) a scouting co-op; Tom Gosby listed as CEPO's only full-time black scout. Minnesota Vikings belong to Blesto-V scouting co-op; Vikings stated that no non-white scouts are employed by Blesto-V. RRIC was advised by some sources that other teams employ black assistant coaches and scouts; however, teams did not respond to questionnaires.

National League (Baseball): No Black Executives.

Atlanta Braves: William Lucas, assistant minor leagues administrator, and Gabe Meadows, promotions and advertising.

Los Angeles Dodgers: Jim Gilliam, assistant coach; Ike Ikuhara, in charge of mail room; Nobe Kawano, in charge of clubhouse; Don Newcombe, community relations; Corito Varona, scout.

Pittsburgh Pirates: Gene Baker, area scouting supervisor; other 14 scouts are white.

St. Louis Cardinals: Johnny Lewis, assistant promotions and sales director; four of 20 full-time scouts are non-white.

Also replying: San Diego Padres. Larry Doby is a coach with Montreal Expos.

Baseball Commissioner's Office: Monte Irvin, assistant to commissioner Bowie K. Kuhn.

The New Nicklaus Boasts Surprises On and Off Links

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus was strolling through the lobby of the club house when he was approached by a middle-aged woman wearing dangling earrings and a look of hero worship.

"Oh, Mr. Nicklaus," the lady cooed. "Tell me, is it true that you are going to Hollywood to make a movie? I've heard that talent scouts have been after you."

Jack, who shared the first-round lead in the PGA championship, blushed.

"No, ma'am," he replied politely. "I play golf. That's my career."

Shortly afterward, a man

strode up to a press photographer and asked the name of the young player whose picture he had just snapped.

"That was Jack Nicklaus," the photographer answered.

"No, I know Nicklaus," the questioner persisted. "I mean that kid with the blond hair."

"It was Nicklaus," the cameraman repeated.

The man walked away, scratching his head.

The new Jack Nicklaus is puzzling everybody. He is trim and handsome. He looks 10 years younger. He has a pleasant new personality. And he's playing the best golf of his life.

The 30-year-old belter from Columbus, Ohio, who has won more than $60,000 in his last four tournaments which include his second triumph in the British Open, goes into the second round of the PGA Championship today tied with San Francisco's young John Miller for the lead with two-under-par 68.

Everybody's predicting Jack will walk away with the $40,000 first prize, thus completing a unprecedented second sweep of the four major pro championships. He already holds three Masters, two U.S. and two British Open crowns. He won the PGA in 1963.

Only three other players have won the four major titles once around—Gene Sarazen and Ben Hogan, no longer active, and Gary Player of South Africa, three away from a second sweep.

Trailing Nicklaus and Miller after the opening round over the 6,962-yard, par-70 Southern Hills Country Club course are Larry Hinson and Charles Coody, tied at 69 and a half dozen bracketed at even par 70.

They are Arnold Palmer, Jacky Cupit, Dick Hendrickson, Homero Blancas, Dave Stockton and Sam Snead. Hendrickson is an obscure club pro from Marlton, N.J. Everybody knows Sam Snead. He's 58 and winner of more than 100 tournaments, including three PGAs, in a fabulous 30-year career.

Defending champion Ray Floyd, blaming a patch of red sand for two of his bogeys, had a 71 and Bill Casper, the Masters king, fired 16 straight pars and two bogeys for a 72, a score he shared with Lee Trevino.

Tony Jacklin of Britain, the U.S. Open champion and Player had 74. Jacklin took a triple bogey six on short 14th, where he hit his tee shot against a fence.

Central Champ Tastes Defeat At Wellington

WELLINGTON, Kan. — Brookfield, Ill., Central Division champions in the 16-18 Babe Ruth League, went down to defeat at the hands of the host Wellington squad Thursday evening, 5-3.

Brookfield was the winner of the Babe Ruth Tournament held in Sedalia recently.

The losing pitcher for Brookfield was Dave Wehrmeister who fanned a dozen batters to tie a Tournament of Champions record and smacked a two-run homer.

Brookfield will now face Stamford, Conn., Saturday night. Wellington will play Yuma, Ariz., at 1 p.m. Sunday in the winner's bracket. Yuma beat Stamford earlier, 12-10.

Grant Clay License

Former heavy weight boxing champion Cassius Clay listens to questions from reporters in Atlanta Thursday where it was announced Clay's promoters have been granted a license to sponsor a Clay versus Joe Frazier fight. The fight would be in Atlanta Oct. 26. At right is Clay's attorney Robert Kassel. (UPI)

Clay Heading For Ring

ATLANTA (AP) — Promoters say only the lack of signatures on a contract—something they view as a formality—stands between a heavyweight championship fight between Joe Frazier and Cassius Clay in Atlanta Oct. 26.

The proposed bout has been rejected by a number of cities because Clay, stripped of his heavyweight crown when he refused induction into the Army, has been unable to secure a license. But the Atlanta Athletic Commission has issued him a license.

And Clay said at a news conference Thursday that he is willing to fight Frazier, the champ, in the 5,000-seat City Auditorium. Announcement that Clay has a license and is ready to fight caught the Frazier camp by surprise.

"It's a lie," said Yank Durham in Stateline, Nev., where Frazier is appearing with his rock music group, Durham, who manages the fighter, said "there is no truth to it at all."

He said he could not believe that Clay had a license, but that if he does, Frazier will fight him.

"But he doesn't and that is all there is to that," he said.

However, Durham left the door open for a possible bout with Clay next year.

"We have a commitment to fight Bob Foster," Durham said. Clay will not be fought until we fulfill our obligation to Foster.

"If Clay has a license, then we'll fight him next year. Let him fight someone else and prove to me he has a license. If he has a license, we'll fight him next year. There is no fight in sight with Clay until next year."

Georgia State Sen. Leroy Johnson arranged the fight. He said at the news conference that all Georgia law requires is a city boxing license and Clay has that in his possession.

"We have done what the law requires us to do," said Johnson. "We feel we are now in the running. There is no state law which would prevent the fight."

There were published reports that the fight has the endorsement of Gov. Lester Maddox but he was unavailable for comment. Vice Mayor Maynard Jackson and other city officials attended the conference and said afterwards the fight has their blessings.

Clay, now 28, said little.

"This is the latest try and wherever we can get it I'm ready," he said. "I couldn't predict in this one. I've been off too long."

A right field box in Mile High Stadium, Denver, holds a stout steel cage bearing the sign, "Fingers are food, don't feed the bear." The cage is the domicile for a half-grown cub, mascot of the Denver Bears of the American Association baseball circuit.

Klover Edged At Knoxville

Paul Klover, 17-year-old Smith-Cotton senior, missed by an eyelash of gaining a berth in the finals of the 440 yard dash at the National Junior Olympics held Wednesday at Knoxville, Tenn.

Running in the fast preliminary heat, the tall CEMO 440 champion finished fifth with a 50.5 clocking. The fastest four times qualified from each of the two heats.

Fourteen runners took part in the event, one from each of 14 national districts. Klover represented District Eight.

The final was won by the winner of Klover's heat, Earl Richardson, Dayton, Ohio. He turned the quarter-mile in a blistering 47.3, a new Junior Olympics record.

Second was Joel Garren, Bradenton, Fla., at 47.6.

Klover's career best came in the CEMO Conference Outdoor in mid-May when he turned in a record 49.3 clocking.

He still has another year of varsity competition at Smith-Cotton.

Pro Charts

BY MURRAY OLDERMAN

American Conference: HOUSTON

Lemm

Regner

PROSPECTUS — Oilers were no ordinary .500 club; they were in division race last year right down to final two weeks of season. Coach Wally Lemm evidently felt field leadership failed him, so made big trading shifts to be back on winning stride. Oilers are sleepers.

OFFENSE

PASSING—Charley Johnson's no stranger to the boss. Dr. Johnson (bona fide title) worked four years for Lemm at St. Louis, so their offensive concepts mesh. Charley's supposed to be poor poor-weather fliker, but that problem becomes academic in Astro dome. Return to native Texas should stimulate the blond vet. Rating—B

RECEIVING—Charley won't have to worry about overthrowing likes of Jerry Levas or Charley Joiner. Right now Levas and Jim Beirne tabbed as starters, but Mac Maik is threat. So's Bob Atkins, another ex-Card who was restricted to defense. At right end, Alvin Reed ranks with best in game. Rating—B+

RUNNING—At least there'll be a feeling of stability without Woody Campbell having to run off to the Army periodically. He's 100 per center now (Oiler, that is) lining up in backfield with stump-legged Hoyle Granger. They're both pliedrivers and have help of Roy Hopkins. Have sleeper speedboy in rookie Bill Dusenberry. Rating—B

LINE—Real solid and veteran unit from tackle (Glenn Ray Hines) to tackle (Wall Suggs). In between, guard Tom Regner is a standout who merits all-star attention. And just for added strength they've drafted Doug Wilkerson (No. 1 choice) and Ron Saul. Rating—A-

DEFENSE

LINE—Outstanding at the ends, with steady Pat Holmes and exciting Elvin Bethea, the Big E who gets to quarterbacks. But the dropoff in quality is acute inside. Carel Stith, Tom Domes finally had to take over last year after vets George Rice (bad knee), Willie Parker, bloated stomach). Answer may have to come from rookie like Leo Brooks of Texas. Rating—B-

LINEBACKING—All-pro kudos for George Webster last year little misleading. Rangy left linebacker got lot of them on reputation. But since he's undoubtedly the best talent in football for the job, a fair season for him ('69) would be great for someone else. On right side, Olen Underwood's in strong danger of being supplanted by robust Ron Pritchard. Garland Boyette is strong man in middle. Couple of aggressive underlings on tap in Loyd Wainscott, rookie Jess Lewis, both tackle stars in college. Rating—B+

SECONDARY—Fact that they could afford to trade all-league Miller Farr must mean Oilers are secure with Leroy Mitchell, Zeke Moore on corners. Can also use ex-Card Bob Atkins there. Strong safety Ken Houston's one of best in business. Johnny Peacock was a surprise rookie starter last year and should improve. Rating—B

KICKING—Soccer-style Roy Gerela kicks air out of ball from placement and on kickoffs, but there's an all-points search to find an adequate punter. Rating—B-

These Methods Relieve Itchiness of Fabrics
By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—L. K. may prevent her 100 per cent wool sweater from scratching if she adds two tablespoons of glycerin to the wash water. Many years ago I passed this tip on to a commercial cleaner who has been using it ever since.—MARY H.

DEAR POLLY—My skin is supersensitive to many fabrics but I have found a method which works for me. I spray the garment, inside and out, with plastic spray starch. I make several applications and dry after each. This has to be renewed after each cleaning or washing. Washable garments should also be rinsed in a fabric softener before treating with the starch. I have used this on woollens, including sweaters, and synthetics and it has never altered a garment or made it stiff. (Polly's Note—Try a small place on yours first.) The starch apparently coats and smooths whatever it is that irritates the skin. I hope this will help someone-else as much as it has helped me.—M. G.

DEAR POLLY—I received a lovely pink sweater as a gift but could not wear it since I cannot wear wool next to my skin. I lined my sweater with a long pink nylon slip I no longer wore and now I can wear the sweater most comfortably.—LAVINA

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Can anyone tell me how to shorten a vinyl raincoat? I do not want to ruin my nice coat by running it through the sewing machine. I did that once and the coat wrinkled.—ANNE

DEAR ANNE—Are you really sure you want to SHORTEN your coat?—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is for other mothers who are looking for ways to entertain their babies. I made a small sawhorse about 14 inches high and 30 inches long and tied baby's toys to it. When he is in the living room, he lays on his back on a blanket and plays with these toys. I used an old round broom handle for the top and some scrap boards for the sides. This was painted, but baby really doesn't care how it looks as long as it makes him happy. Use things that he can hit around and make a noise, such as rattles, measuring spoons and spoons on a piece of yarn. This will entertain a baby from about three months to the time he starts to crawl and entertain himself.—AUDINE

DEAR GIRLS—Just be sure not to use this so long that baby could knock it over and hurt himself.—POLLY

Nixon Ventures On Integration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stressing cooperation rather than coercion, President Nixon ventured his greatest involvement in Southern school desegregation today with a New Orleans meeting with advisory councils from seven states.

Aides said the President's journey had twin goals: Bolstering the effectiveness and prestige of the state desegregation advisory councils, and emphasizing his commitment to enforcing wide-scale voluntary integration in the South this fall.

Nixon faced the difficult political job of administering unpopular medicine while keeping the patient reasonably happy with the doctor.

George P. Shultz, who led the administration party accompanying Nixon, said one idea of the trip was to extend a hand to the South on the eve of what likely will be its largest dose of desegregation.

Shultz is vice chairman of the Cabinet Committee on Education and director of the Office of Management and Budget.

Also accompanying the President were Secretary of Welfare Elliot L. Richardson, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, White House aides Robert H. Finch, Leonard Garment, Harry Dent and Daniel Patrick Moynihan, Director Donald Rumsfeld of the Office of Economic Opportunity and J. Stanley Pottinger, Richardson's chief civil rights aide.

On the eve of the President's meeting with Southern officials, Mitchell said he expects the Supreme Court to decide later this year what steps the Justice Department should take in attacking school segregation in the North.

Mitchell told a Senate committee Thursday his department cannot move against segregation caused by housing patterns until the court acts.

Senators from the North and South told Mitchell the nation needs a new policy to get away from the hypocrisy of ignoring segregation in the North—whatever its cause—while zeroing in on the South.

The state desegregation advisory councils were formed by the Nixon administration to lead the Southern integration drive this fall.

Nixon planned to meet with the full panel from Louisiana and with the chairmen and vice chairmen of Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina and South Carolina units.

The committees are biracial, bipartisan and composed of educators, physicians, lawyers, other professionals and civil rights leaders.

With school openings less than a week away in some parts of the South, the President and his administration stand on the threshold of a crucial test over desegregation and over ending school discrimination.

Coca-Cola Reveals Plans For Migrants

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Coca-Cola Co. has announced plans to improve wages and benefits for its full-time citrus workers in Florida and to initiate a program that may give migrant workers full-time employment.

Wage increases will average 23 per cent, an increase of about $17 weekly, for 300 full-time citrus workers, said J. Lucian Smith, president of the company's foods division.

The company told a Senate subcommittee last month that it was considering such a plan. The subcommittee was looking into working conditions of migrant farm laborers.

Smith said the company also plans to begin a pilot training program to enable migrant farm workers to become full-time employees, which would give them hourly and incentive pay instead of piece work rates.

Networks Shuffling For Fall

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The three major television networks are busy moving their entertainment entries toward the fall starting gate. NBC and CBS open their seasons the week of Sept. 13, and ABC introduces its lineup during the following seven days.

"How does the new season look to you?" is the most frequent, worried question asked of a reporter who has been looking over new and old product, visiting studios, and talking to stars, producers and directors.

Network television's 1970-71 season looks very much like the 1969-70 season at the same time last year. There will be 21 new programs—or 23 if one counts as new shows Red Skelton's half hour on a new network and NBC's "Men from Shiloh" which is a drastically remodeled "Virginian." None seems to be very different from series which have been around for some time.

Returning programs, will not risk any really radical changes.

Producers, who are usually good salesmen, speak convincingly about exciting scripts and impressive performances. Stars, particularly all the young unknowns getting their first breaks in leads, rave about their fellow workers and tell how the affectionate acting climate will be reflected in the finished product. All this is as predictable and traditional as the choreography of a minuet.

There is the usual inter-network competition, but it seems to be consensus that ABC, with 11 new series, a new confidence and aggressiveness, is the network to keep an eye on. ABC, "the third network," is under new leadership and appears ready to give the two larger, older networks some real competition for audience favor.

CBS, with six new shows, has been reshuffling its schedule and refocusing, all in an effort to attract more viewers in younger age brackets and in urban surroundings. It will schedule fewer specials, under a new policy dictating that only specials which have found sponsors will be scheduled. Currently there are almost none on its schedule but several on its shelves.

NBC, with the fewest new shows—four—still likes to use special programs, and lots of them. It is experimenting, not with new story ideas, but with new TV forms.

How does the new season look? Business-like and cautious, take it from one who predicted "Beverly Hillsbillies" would be lucky if it survived for five months and that "Laugh In" could never stand the pace.

Anti-NATO Rumors Get Cool Reception

BRUSSELS (AP) — Now that the Soviet Union and West Germany have promised not to use force against one another, some people are sure to suggest that there is no longer any good reason for the North Atlantic alliance—that the chief danger of a European war has disappeared.

This kind of talk gets no support at the headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization outside Brussels.

NATO officials are not commenting officially; the private view generally is that the treaty helps relax tensions but does not mean the allies can let down their guard.

NATO diplomats believe that the treaty only became possible because West German Chancellor Willy Brandt's foreign allies were firmly behind him.

The point of the Atlantic Alliance, as these diplomats see it, is that America and Western Europe must depend on one another for defense, not against the comparatively mild policy today of the men who rule the Soviet Union but against any shift to a new aggressive policy that those men or their successors might make. Weakening the Atlantic alliance might encourage such a shift, they think.

"You still have the same configuration of troops in Central Europe," said one NATO diplomat, "and that obliges us to have something comparable."

He and his colleagues argue that because the Western allies have held together for the 21 years of NATO's history, Soviet leaders have seen that aggression would be futile. The diplomats think no quantity of treaties can match the effectiveness of united defense in preventing war.

Nevertheless support can be expected to grow for the idea of talks with the Soviets on a new system of security for Europe. At the end of NATO's last big

Asks POW Protest

NELLIS AIR FORCE BASE, Nev. (AP) — The general who commands this base has asked its 10,000 servicemen and civilians to protest the treatment of American prisoners of war in Southeast Asia.

"We simply haven't pushed North Vietnam hard enough," Brig. Gen. Homer Hansen said Tuesday. "War isn't the issue." Hansen has asked base personnel to write letters to the Washington ambassadors of Poland, Sweden, the Soviet Union, Romania and France.

Hansen said about half of the 1,500 Americans listed as missing in action or as POWs are Air Force fighter pilots who trained at Nellis.

Pornography Committee Sticks to Liberal Words

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President's Commission on Pornography reportedly is sticking to its recommendations for liberalized obscenity laws despite President Nixon's warning he would oppose them.

The 18-member commission took no final votes at meetings Tuesday and Wednesday, sources said, but continued to edit its draft report without making substantial changes.

The major draft recommendations are repeal of all U.S. laws against showing and selling pornographic films, books and other erotica to adults, and enactment of laws protecting children from exposure to such material.

The recommendations, which would make U.S. laws nearly as liberal as Denmark's, are based on a tentative finding that pornography does not cause sex crimes and is not harmful to children.

The White House said Tuesday day "it is safe to predict" President Nixon would oppose such recommendations.

At the same time, the White House washed its hands of the draft report and press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler pointed out that the commission members had been appointed by former President Lyndon B. Johnson, not Nixon.

The draft report recommends protection of adults from forced exposure to pornography with laws against its public display and use in unsolicited mail advertisements.

The report suggests repeal of pornography laws for adults because effective legislation would require either largely voluntary compliance—which laws do not now have—or massive enforcement which sometimes leads to repression.

It recommends instead a massive sex re-education program to break the "conspiracy of silence" adults have imposed on sex.

The purpose of the silence has been to control youngsters by keeping them ignorant and to suppress adults' disturbing sexual impulses, it said, but the effect has been to drive underground youngsters' natural curiosity about sex.

"The commission feels," the draft says, "that sex education may be a powerful tool in coping with both the motivations for interest in explicit sexual materials and potential undesirable effects of exposure to these materials."

Although conducted on an enormous nationwide basis, the draft says, appropriate sex education still should be a joint function of parents, church and school.

High and Dry

Being left high and dry is more than just a saying around boat clubs on White Rock Lake in Dallas. The lake has receded during the hot, dry summer, leaving cracked earth, pools of water and waterless boats along the shoreline.

Representative Quotes Report On White Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. William L. Clay, D-Mo., quoted from a federal report Thursday which said that of 582 associations granted recreation loans by the Farmers Home Administration, 664 are "white and exclusive."

FHA funds loaned to all-black or predominantly black associations represent only $1.2 million of the $90.9 million loaned since 1962, Clay said.

"The FHA must find some way to make amends for this federal subsidy which has, for the most part, gone to white, rich citizens groups," he said.

Most of the associations are golf facilities and clubs.

Clay said the report from which he was quoting was made by the General Accounting Office in response to a request made by eight congressmen a year ago.

The request followed a disclosure that the FHA guaranteed a $265,000 loan to the all-white Natchez Trace Golf Club in Mississippi.

Report Three Fires At Cairo, Illinois

CAIRO, Ill. (AP) — Three fires were reported in the Negro section of northeast Cairo Thursday night, on the eve of a protest motorcade by whites to the state capital.

Sporadic gunfire occurred late in the evening and police said firemen who responded to alarms called for police assistance.

Two policemen patrolling near the all-Negro Pyramid Courts housing project said they were fired on.

Two of the fires were reported to be at a vacant house and a store. The cause or report of damage estimate was not immediately available.

Whites who have protested state action on a planning grant for housing to the United Front were scheduled to leave for Springfield about daybreak where they hoped to talk with Gov. Richard Ogilvie.

Mazursky-Tucker Film Is Real Family Affair

By DICK KLEINER

Paul Mazursky and Larry Tucker wrote, produced and directed "Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice." It was a huge hit.

"We were sitting around one day," Tucker says, "wondering what to do next. So we decided to do a film about a film director who has had a big hit and wonders what to do next."

Their new picture, currently shooting here, is "Alex in Wonderland."

"Is this film autobiographical?" I asked Mazursky.

"Everything is, to some extent," he said. "Isn't that so? Isn't Hitchcock autobiographical to some extent?"

The picture stars Donald Sutherland as the director, and it's a real family picture — in the old sense of the word. A couple of Mazurskys are in it and practically everybody in the company is related to somebody else in the company.

They were shooting at an elementary school Mazursky's kids went to. The teacher in the scene, somebody explained, was the wife of the transportation gaffer in the company. A young man came by, shooting pictures, and it turned out he was the assistant director's son. And so on.

Sutherland says he isn't modeling the director he plays "after anybody we know."

"The part," he says, "as it was written in the script, would have fit Elliot (Gould) better than it fit me. But I'm making it fit me."

Both he and Mazursky were wearing black hats. Mazursky said his mother had sent him

Happy Gathering

"Alex in Wonderland," the new movie by the team that produced "Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice," is a family affair in more ways than one. Here, Donald Sutherland (who plays Alex), Meg Mazursky, Ellen Burstyn and Glenna Sargent, from top to bottom, show some real togetherness.

the hat. Sutherland thought it looked good on him, so they sent for another one. When the hats were first obtained, they were plain. Sutherland thought there should be some decoration, so Mazursky got an Indian friend — a girl named Suzie Sunshine — to put some Indian beading on them.

Sutherland's wife in the film is being played by a handsome girl named Ellen Burstyn. She looked familiar, but I didn't recognize the name.

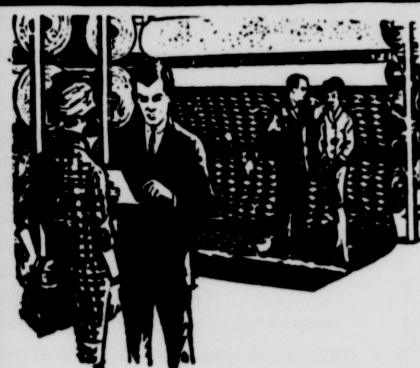

"I used to be Ellen McRae," she said, and the bells rang. "I made a couple of pictures and many, many TV shows."

This is her second film as Ellen Burstyn, which is her married name. Her first was "Tropic of Cancer."

Renee Loves to Scout

By JOAN CROSBY
HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — The door to the tastefully elegant office opens and a pair of legs walks in topped by a miniskirt that seems reluctant to cover too much, topped by a girl with an outstanding figure and long dark hair.

She sits as requested and seems not too nervous, under the circumstances.

She is an actress and she is being looked over by Renee Valente, executive director of talent for Screen Gems. Renee's reaction can have a big effect on the actress' future.

They chat. Renee discovers that the girl rides motorcycles. "When we were younger and crazier," Renee says, putting the girl at ease, "my husband and I came across the country on motorcycles."

The girl discusses her ancestry: Spanish, Indian and German. Renee tells her she has a great look and asks her to come back and do a scene. They discuss possible plays and the girl says she will telephone when she is ready. She leaves.

"She'll have trouble with

A play script is scanned by Renee Valente and the girl who will be in a new TV series next fall, Nancy (Renne Jarrett).

leads," Renee says after she has gone, "because she looks so Eurasian. But she has a marvelous look."

Screen Gems has four new series set for next fall: Nancy, The Partridge Family, The Young Rebels and The Interns, in addition to the returning Bewitched and The Johnny Cash Show. They need a lot of young actors.

Renee, an attractive, husky-voiced woman who likes actors, haunts little theater productions and her own memory to find new talent. Additionally, for an hour or two a day at least twice a week, she holds open interviews and will see anyone who calls for an appointment. That's what she is doing now.

The second hopeful is a young Mexican gentleman from Texas who speaks Spanish as he enters. He is very nervous but trying to cover it with cheer. He is studying with a famous teacher. Renee sends him downstairs to make an appointment for an audition.

"Shall I do a scene that calls for an accent?"

"Do something you're comfortable doing — but make it American," she says.

She looks after him. "I don't think he'll have what it takes. But Mexican actors will be big this year and in case he can act, I want to see him."

Her secretary calls over the intercom to say an actor has canceled his appointment. "He probably got a job," Renee says. Her telephone rings, as it has been doing fairly constantly. She has a long conversation with an agent. Finally she says, quietly and with great patience, "You know I'll talk to you any time you call, but please don't call me on a matter like this again."

He was checking on a young, unknown client for whom Renee has not only been trying to find a role at Screen Gems, but also sending the girl on auditions at other studios. "He knows we like her and it will only be a matter of time."

Time is what it takes. Renee saw John Fink, who will star in Nancy, in New York four years ago. Renee Jarrett, who will play Nancy, was also discovered in New York.

"We are using more young, new talent than any other studio," she says, and the statement is borne out by the series. Only Shirley Jones in The Partridge Family and Celeste Holm in Nancy are big names.

Jeff Duel, who has a good role in John Wayne's latest, unreleased film, "Chisum," drops in.

"I'm tired of sitting around the beach. My agent tells me I'll get lots of work when the picture is out, and he doesn't want me to take smaller parts."

"That's nonsense," Renee says. "No actor has ever been hurt by working."

It's time for the unknowns. The next is another miniskirted girl with long red hair, lots of poise and beauty. She also gets an audition. After she leaves, Renee says, "She'll make it."

Next on Renee's schedule is a tall, handsome, enthusiastic actor who had a fairly good role on an episode of The Virginian. Renee calls up to get a print. She decides he, too, will make it. Her final appointment is with the star of two former hit series. They discuss two pilot projects, but off-the-record.

What kind of a series would you like? she asks him. "The kind you once produced, Hawk," he says. They discuss the project which has been so close to her heart.

Then she runs out of time and she must hop off to screenings of some shows with some youngsters getting their first break because of her.
